

ASO Update texts

Review ASO update text for top performing games in puzzle, hyper casual, hybrid casual and midcore

Table of contents

1. ASO Copy Principles
2. Category Playbooks
3. Update Text Benchmarks
4. Good vs Bad Examples
5. Reusable Copy Templates
6. Studio Writing Rules for Voodoo games

1. ASO Copy Principles

What makes a good ASO update text

1. Hook first

- First line matters most
- Grab attention immediately

2. Player benefit

Not:

Added new mechanic

But:

Unlock faster smashes and win more matches

3. Emotion / hype

- “Epic”
- “New challenge”
- “Insane levels”

(especially for casual games)

4. Short & scannable

- 2–4 bullet points max
- Emoji often help (especially in casual)

Common mistakes

- Too technical
- Too long
- No player benefit
- No hook
- Generic (“bug fixes”)

2. Category Playbooks

It's a set of rules that defines how updates should be communicated based on:

- Player mindset
- Emotional drivers
- What makes them come back

Common structure

- Hook
- What's new
- Player benefit
- Reason to come back now

PUZZLE PLAYBOOK

Create curiosity + challenge + satisfaction

Player mindset: “I want a clever challenge that feels satisfying to solve”

Tone:

- Curious
- Light
- Smart
- Slightly playful

Hooks:

- “Ready for a new challenge?”
- “Think you can solve this?”
- “Looks easy... right?”

Messaging rules:

- Focus on new levels / new tricks
- Emphasize cleverness, not difficulty
- Keep it inviting, not intimidating

Example:

 New puzzles await!

 50 tricky new levels

 Even more satisfying solutions

 Can you find the trick?

Give it a try 😊

HYPERCASUAL PLAYBOOK

Create instant fun + impulse click

Player mindset: “I want quick, effortless fun right now”

Tone:

- Simple
- Playful
- Immediate
- Light

Hooks:

- “Jump back in!”
- “Ready to try again?”
- “Don’t miss this!”

Messaging rules:

- Keep it very short
- Focus on new levels / new fun
- Highlight fail moments / humor / satisfaction

Example:

🔥 More fun, more chaos!

🎯 New levels to try

😂 Even crazier fails

⚡ Smoother gameplay

Tap and go!

HYBRID CASUAL PLAYBOOK

Create progression + reward + return motivation

Player mindset: “I want to grow, unlock, and get stronger”

Tone:

- Rewarding
- Motivational
- Slightly energetic
- Accessible

Hooks:

- “Big update!”
- “Ready to go further?”
- “Your journey continues!”

Messaging rules:

- Highlight:
 - Upgrades
 - New content
 - Progression
- Always link to player growth

Example:

Big update!

New upgrades to unlock

More challenges to beat

Faster, smoother gameplay

Jump back in and go further!

MIDCORE PLAYBOOK

Create power + mastery + competition

Player mindset: “I want to get stronger and prove I’m better”

Tone:

- Confident
- Competitive
- Strategic
- Slightly epic

Hooks:

- “New season begins”
- “Ready to dominate?”
- “The battle continues”

Messaging rules:

- Focus on:
 - Power
 - Strategy
 - Ranking
 - Competition

Avoid “fun” as the main message

Example:

New challenges await

Unlock powerful upgrades

Climb the ranks

Refine your strategy

Step in and prove your skill.

3.1 Update Text Benchmark: Royal Match

Game: Royal Match

Category: Puzzle (hybrid casual leaning)

Context: new levels + new areas

Update text:

New levels are here!

100 brand new puzzles

Discover new areas

More challenges await!

Play now and keep the adventure going!

Hook:

Type: content / progression

Line: New levels are here!

What's new:

100 new puzzles + new areas

Player benefit:

More content to play + continued progression + new environments

3.1 Update Text Benchmark: Royal Match

Return trigger:

“Play now and keep the adventure going!”

Tone:

Puzzle / hybrid casual

Friendly, light, progression-driven

Why it works:

- Extremely clear and scannable
- Reinforces the core loop (more levels → keep playing)
- Low cognitive load → easy to process instantly
- Matches player expectation for this type of game

Pattern:

Content drop + progression + soft CTA

Strength:

High clarity / strong retention

Weakness:

Low emotional hook / low differentiation

3.2 Update Text Benchmark: Helix jump

Game: Helix Jump

Category: Hypercasual

Context: new levels

Update text:

🔥 More fun, more chaos!

🎯 New levels to try

😂 Even crazier fails

⚡ Smoother gameplay

Tap and go!

Hook:

Type: fun / energy

Line: More fun, more chaos!

What's new:

New levels

Player benefit:

More variety + entertainment

3.2 Update Text Benchmark: Helix jump

Return trigger:

“Tap and go!”

Tone:

Hypercasual

Why it works:

- Immediate and easy to read
- Emotion-first (fun > feature)
- Very low cognitive load

Pattern:

Energy hook + new content + fun benefit + quick CTA

Strength:

High CTR

Weakness:

Low differentiation

3.3 Update Text Benchmark: Mob Control

Game: Mob Control

Category: Hybrid casual

Context: new feature + progression update

Update text:

Big update!

New upgrades to unlock

More enemies to defeat

New challenges to conquer

Jump in and grow your army!

Hook:

Type: progression / excitement

Line: Big update!

What's new:

New upgrades + more enemies + new challenges

Player benefit:

More progression + more action + stronger army growth

3.3 Update Text Benchmark: Mob Control

Return trigger:

“Jump in and grow your army!”

Tone:

Hybrid casual

Energetic, progression-driven, slightly action-oriented

Why it works:

- Strong focus on progression and growth, core to the game loop
- Uses action verbs (unlock, defeat, conquer) → dynamic feel
- Communicates variety and escalation
- Clear link between update and player power increase

Pattern:

Big update hook + progression systems + escalation + growth CTA

Strength:

Good balance of clarity + motivation

Weakness:

Slightly generic hook / could use stronger differentiation or specific feature highlight

3.4 Update Text Benchmark: Brawl Stars

Game: Brawl Stars

Category: Midcore casual

Context: new season + new brawler + event

Update text:

 New season is here!

 Unlock a brand new Brawler

 Take on new game modes

 Climb the ranks and earn rewards

Jump into the action and prove your skills!

Hook:

Type: season / hype

Line: New season is here!

What's new:

New brawler + new game modes + seasonal progression

Player benefit:

New ways to play + new character to master + more rewards to earn

3.4 Update Text Benchmark: Brawl Stars

Return trigger:

“Jump into the action and prove your skills!”

Tone:

Midcore casual

Competitive, energetic, skill-driven

Why it works:

- Strong seasonal hook → creates urgency and freshness
- Combines content + progression + competition
- Highlights both newness (brawler, modes) and goals (rank, rewards)
- Ends with a skill-based CTA, aligned with player mindset

Pattern:

Season hook + new content + competitive progression + skill CTA

Strength:

High engagement + strong return motivation

Weakness:

Slightly formulaic / relies on familiar structure rather than unique hook

4.1 Good vs Bad Examples: Puzzle

PUZZLE

Bad example:

New levels added.

Good example:

🧠 Ready for a new challenge?

🧩 50 tricky new levels

🔍 Can you find the solution?

Why bad:

- No hook
- No curiosity
- No player benefit

Why good:

- Starts with a question (curiosity)
- Emphasizes challenge + solving
- Invites player to engage mentally

Key point:

Puzzle = curiosity + cleverness

NOT feature listing

4.2 Good vs Bad Examples: Hypercasual

HYPERCASUAL

Bad example:

We added new levels and improved performance.

Good example:

🔥 More fun, more chaos!

🎯 New levels to try

😂 Even crazier fails

Tap and go!

Why bad:

- Too long
- Too technical
- No emotion

Why good:

- Instant energy hook
- Focus on fun, not features
- Very low cognitive load

Key point:

Hypercasual = instant fun + emotion

NOT explanation

4.3 Good vs Bad Examples: Hybrid Casual

HYBRID CASUAL

Bad example:

New upgrades and features added.

Good example:

Big update!

Unlock new upgrades

Take on new challenges

Jump in and grow stronger!

Why bad:

- Generic
- No motivation
- No player benefit

Why good:

- Focus on progression
- Clear reward loop
- Strong return trigger

Key point:

Hybrid = growth + rewards

NOT features

4.4 Good vs Bad Examples: Midcore

MIDCORE

Bad example:

New content available.

Good example:

New season begins

Unlock powerful upgrades

Climb the ranks

Prove your skill.

Why bad:

- Zero emotion
- No stakes
- No reason to return

Why good:

- Strong competitive hook
- Emphasizes power + ranking
- Appeals to skill and mastery

Key point:

Midcore = power + competition + mastery

NOT neutral updates

4.5 Good vs Bad Examples: Overview

All bad examples fail because they:

- Describe features instead of benefits
- Lack emotion
- Lack a hook
- Give no reason to return

All good examples:

- Start with a hook
- Focus on player benefit
- Match the category mindset
- End with a reason to play now

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Universal ASO update template

Template name: Hook + New Content + Benefit + CTA

Category: All

Best for: Most updates

Formula:

[Hook]

[New content / feature]

[Player benefit]

[Reason to come back]

[CTA]

Example:

🔥 Big update!

🏐 New arenas to unlock

⚡ Faster matches and bigger wins

🏆 More challenges await

Jump back in and play now!

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Curiosity Challenge

Category: Puzzle

Formula:

[Curiosity question]

[Number] new puzzles

[Challenge / trick]

[Soft CTA]

Example:

Can you solve them all?

50 new puzzles

New tricky challenges

Give it a try!

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Satisfaction Hook

Category: Puzzle

Formula:

[Hook around satisfaction]

[New levels]

[Satisfying solution benefit]

[CTA]

Example:

Everything clicks!

New levels are here

Find the perfect solution

Start solving now!

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Instant Fun

Category: Hypercasual

Formula:

[Energy hook]

[New levels]

[Fun / fail / chaos benefit]

[Very short CTA]

Example:

More fun, more chaos!

New levels to try

Even crazier fails

Tap and go!

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Try Again Loop

Category: Hypercasual

Formula:

[Challenge hook]

[New obstacles]

[Funny failure / satisfying success]

[CTA]

Example:

Think you can make it?

New obstacles ahead

More hilarious fails

Try again!

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Progression Push

Category: Hybrid casual

Formula:

[Big update hook]

[New upgrades]

[New challenges]

[Growth benefit]

[CTA]

Example:

Big update!

Unlock new upgrades

Take on bigger challenges

Grow stronger every run

Jump back in!

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Reward Loop

Category: Hybrid casual

Formula:

[Reward hook]

[New rewards / unlocks]

[Progression benefit]

[Reason to return]

Example:

New rewards await!

Unlock powerful boosts

Upgrade faster

Go further than ever!

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Power Escalation

Category: Midcore

Formula:

[Season / battle hook]

[New power / units]

[Strategic benefit]

[Competitive CTA]

Example:

The battle continues!

Unlock powerful upgrades

Refine your strategy

Step in and prove your skill.

5. Reusable Copy Templates

Template name: Competitive Progression

Category: Midcore

Formula:

[Competitive hook]

[New season / mode]

[Rank / reward benefit]

[Skill CTA]

Example:

Ready to dominate?

New season is live

Climb the ranks and earn rewards

Prove you're the best.

5. Reusable Copy Templates

RULES

Template rules:

- Always start with a hook.
- Never describe only features.
- Convert features into player benefits.
- Keep lines short.
- Match tone to category.
- End with a reason to return.

6. Studio Writing Rules for Voodoo games

1. Start with impact

- First line= hook
- Must be readable instantly
- Create emotion or curiosity

GOOD

Ready to try again?

New challenges await!

More enemies are here!

BAD

New update available.

We added new features.

2. Keep it short

- 3-lines max
- 3-6 words per line
- One idea per line
- Avoid complexity at all cost

GOOD

Short, clear, easy to read and scan. If a sentence requires thinking, just remove it.

BAD

Long paragraphs.

No breaks.

3. Feature should be player benefits

- Do not focus on the feature
- Give value from it
- Create excitement

GOOD

New foes will challenge you!

More levels to beat!

Discover great new weapons!

BAD

New levels added.

New weapons added.

4. Prioritize emotion over information

Use emotions that drive players to come back to the game:

- Fun
- Hectic moments
- Satisfaction
- Challenge
- Fail moments
- Rewarding difficulty

Match the tone to the category of the game (Puzzle, Hybrid, Hyper, Midcore) and the theme (Sports, Action, Military, Activities etc).

6. Studio Writing Rules for Voodoo games

5. Use simple instinctive language

- First line= hook
- Must be readable instantly
- Create emotion or curiosity

GOOD

Tap, Hit, Try, Dodge, Fall, Win, Smooth, Fast, Solid

BAD

Optimize, Improve, Systems, Mechanics, Framerate, Stability, Technical terms

6. Avoid the patch note syndrom

TO AVOID

- No bug fixes
- No performance improvements
- No technical explanations

If we needed, use wording like:

- Smoother gameplay
- Improved experience

7. One update = One message

- Don't try to say everything
- Give value from it
- Create excitement

PICK ONE FOCUS

- Fun
- New content
- Challenge
- Reward

NOT ALL AT ONCE.

8. Include a return trigger

End your text with a reason for the player to come back.

EXAMPLES:

- Try again
- Jump in
- Play now
- Don't miss

6. Studio Writing Rules for Voodoo games

DO

- Hook first
- Short lines
- Player benefit
- Instant Clarity

DON'T

- Technical language
- Long sentences
- Feature only messaging
- No reason to return

TONE

- Simple
- Fast
- Emotional

We want player to feel an emotion and come back.